Knowledge. Expertise. Understanding. We are Snow Professionals.

EFS does much more than manage snow plowing subcontractors. We study the mechanics of snow. Our certified snow professionals consider factors such as: how snow melts, the consequences of freezing, and the effects that moving (and removing) snow and ice has on waterways, roadways, parking lots, and other important infrastructure components.

Truly Customized Service Plans.

Every facility—and every site—has different needs. At EFS, every service plan we create is tailored to each customer's specific requirements. We're looking for partnerships—not transactions. So we walk customer sites, learn their pain points, and respond to their needs attentively, efficiently, and cost-effectively.

EFS Procures 300+ Tons of Salt During Shortage.

Problem: The 2014 snow season was rugged, often dangerous, and, in hindsight, historical. During the season, many businesses were without power, often left in darkness and without plowed parking lots or with dangerous icy build-ups.

Solution: EFS leveraged our experienced supplier network in the North to ensure they had the heavy equipment and salt needed facilitate solutions for customers in the South. We mobilized suppliers from New York and Ohio to successfully support more than 100 customer sites in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, and Georgia.

By anticipating salt shortages, EFS used its buying power to procure 300+ tons of bulk salt from as far as 700 miles away. We also facilitated direct delivery to EFS subcontractors for EFS customers, even when it was unavailable to all other contractors. By utilizing the financial stability of our parent company, EMCOR Group, Inc., we were able to arrange advantageous financial arrangements with suppliers to further facilitate cooperation and make these steps possible.
